LIEUT. CASSIDY SENIOR OFFICER OF CUSHING Transferred from Navy Yard to Torpedo Boat Destroyer.

Lieut. R. E. Cassidy, engineer officer in the industrial department of the Portsmouth navy yard, will be detached on September 20, says the Portsmouth Herald, and ordered to the torpedo boat destrayer Cushing as senior officers of that ship now at the Boston yard. In the departure of Lieut. Cassidy the Portsmouth navy yard will lose a valuable and popular officer. Lieut. Cassidy went to the station two years ago, with duty in the former machinery division and took a residence in Portsmouth. In every branch of work in his department he has never been found wanting and has at all times labored for the best interest of the yard and the welfare of the employes. He is highly respected and esteemed by his acquaintancs at the navy yard and in Portsmouth, who though pleased at his advancement, ver much regret his transfer. He takes with him the well wishes of every person who enjoys the pleasure of his acquaintance.

Lieut. Cassidy is the son of Dr. Pat-rick Cassidy of this city. CHOIR GIRLS GUESTS

NORWICH TOWN

One of the best papers of the meeting was read by I. V. Stanislaus on Scarcity of Dyes and Chemicals During the Present War. According to Dr. Stanislaus, it will take the United States from 10 to 20 years to reach the point that Germany has gained in the manufacture of dyestuffs, but he contended that, however long it took, the beginning must be made, and the psychological moment for the beginning had arrived.

He said in part:

Two thousand American plants and Universalist Paster and Choir at Sheltering Arms for First Service Following Vacation - Endeavorers at Goshen Meeting.

There are besides a large number of occupants and trades indirectly affected.

In all this annoyance, loss and uncertainty, why do we not have an Americal coal-tar chemical industry, capable of meeting the nation's demands, self-contained and independent of foreign control, utilizing our native raw material?

A careful analysis of the situation shows that not only is the American production of coal-tar dyestuffs completely dominated by the American industry. Two thousand American plants and about two million operatives are threatened with non-employment on threatened with non-employment. duction of coal-tar dyestuffs completely dominated by the American industry, but that this is the case throughout the world. Even countries such as Great Britain and France, with ample supplies of crude material and highly developed industrial power, are in the same conditions as the United States. as we bless others in our daily deeds and have within us the peace which comes from the indwelling of Christ. The musical hour, and afterwards The musical hour, and afterwards the hearty greetings of pastor, choir and visitors, brought cheer to the members of the household. In the case of the German coal-tar chemical industry the field is international and its opera-tions are unchecked by law. The 21 German companies engaged in the chemical dyestuffs manufacture have a nominal capital of over $550,000,000 on which dividends average 22 per cent. Actual profits often reach 50 per cent. The great excesses have been devoted to new construction. It is the most remunerative industry in the empire, the one most solidly and formidably intrenched, the one in which the nation is most proud as showing the triumph of science applied to industrial purposes, and the one illustrating most atrikingly the ability to win and maintain international supremacy in a given field.
